Petersbourg, June 30.

ON the 23d Inſtant the Turkiſh Ambaſſadour Mahomet-Emini-Pacha, arrived at Cloyſter Neski, a Convent about three Engliſh Miles above this Town, where he encamped. Yeſterday Morning he made his publick Entry: The three Regiments of Foot-Guards, and five other Regiments formed a Line on each Side from the Entrance of the Town to the Ambaſſador's Lodgings, and his March with his Retinue was preceded by a Squadron of the Horſe Guards, and cloſed by another. His Retinue and Equipages were pretty numerous. The Prince of Brunſwick, the new elected Duke of Courland, arrived here Yeſterday in the Afternoon, and went directly to the Summer Palace, which was prepared for his Reception. There are in our Gally-Haven upwards of 70 Gallies lying in two Lines within the Port; there are alſo 10 or 12 Gallies at Cronſtadt; all compleatly rigged, and in Order to go to Sea at a Moment's Warning. They have each from 8 to 12 Seamen for the navigating Part, that is ſteering and handling the Sails, beſides the Gunners, who are all on board; ſo that there wants nothing but Orders for the Land-Forces to go on board to row them, which is the Poſt of Honour even for the Guards. Theſe 80 Gallies will carry 20,000 Men, who are all to work at the Oar, and to act as Marines againſt an Enemy. In this Number of Gallies are comprehended 13 for Cavalry, which carry 16 Horſe apiece, and ſeven more are preparing; ſo that they may have 320 Horſe on board, which they can embark and land with great Facility. The Horſes are commodiouſly ſtowed below, and theſe Gallies have the ſame Complement above as the others. The Turkiſh Ambaſſadour was this Morning conducted by the Privy Counſellor M. Nepluef, in one of the Court Coaches, to a private Audience of the Prince Generaliſſimo. The Ambaſſador complimented his Highneſs upon the Birth of the young Monarch, and the good Underſtanding between the two Powers. The Prince made him a ſuitable Reply, and then the other retired. To-morrow the ſaid Ambaſſador is to viſit the Chief Miniſter Count Oſterman. M. Swart, Reſident here of the States-General, and M. Rumpf Envoy of the ſaid States at Stockholm, have each of them preſented to the reſpective Courts, a Memorial of the ſame Tendency, viz. Their High Mightineſſes having been informed to their great Regret, that ſuch Differences have ariſen between the Crowns of Sweden and Ruſſia, as are likely to endanger the Tranquility of the North, in the Preſervation of which they are ſo much intereſted; their High Mightineſſes ardently wiſh to ſee Harmony and good Underſtanding reeſtabliſhed between them. And have therefore inſtructed their Miniſters, to intreat the ſaid Courts reſpectively to communicate to them the State of thoſe Differences; to the End that after mature Examination of them, they may interpoſe their good Offices for renewing that Concord which has for ſo many Years ſubſiſted between the two Powers.

Vienna, July 19, N. S. On the 15th Inſtant, Field-Marſhal Prince Lobkowitz ſet out from hence for Bohemia, to take upon him the Command of the Troops which are to draw together on the Frontiers of that Kingdom, towards the upper Palatinate. The Queen of Hungary, with her Conſort the Great Duke of Tuſcany, continues at Presbourg, only coming hither ſometimes on Viſits to the Imperial Family. On the 15th Count Uhlefeld, Ambaſſador newly returned from Conſtantinople, made a magnificent Entry, with his numerous Retinue, into Presbourg; and being introduced by the Count de Herberſtein the High Chamberlain, had an Audience of the Queen and afterwards of his Royal Highneſs the Great Duke; and the Ambaſſador returned in the ſame Order he came, to his Camp, ſituate without the Town on the Side of the Danube. It has been reſolved to raiſe 25000 Recruits, to be furniſhed by the Hereditary Provinces; the States of which Provinces are ſoon to aſſemble, to ſettle their reſpective Proportions to that Levy. Yeſterday Count Uhlefeld arrived here. Our laſt Advices from Sileſia intimate, that Count Neyperg was making Diſpoſitions to paſs the Neiſs with the Auſtrian Army. The Pruſſians continued incamped at Strehlen.
